2001-09-07 Linda Lael Miller Linda Lael Miller returns to an unforgettable Montana town for a very special occasion.... SPRINGWATER WEDDING Once a frontier stagecoach stop, tiny Springwater has grown and changed and entered the twenty-first century. Cattle rustlers may still be stirring up trouble, but now they're high-tech operators in a modern world. Where stagecoaches once rolled along muddy roads, the Internet is now the newest highway in town. But heartbreak is still heartbreak and love still love, and Springwater still boasts a rich legacy of joy, sorrow, and second chances -- as two childhood sweethearts discover when they rekindle a long-ago passion in the place they will always call home. Maggie McCaffrey left her fast-paced corporate job to take a chance on a more rewarding -- but riskier -- business venture: turning the dilapidated Springwater Station into a bed-and-breakfast. But Maggie didn't count on running straight into J.T. Wainwright, the hometown boy who stole her heart many years before. A tough former New York City cop, J.T. survived a grave gunshot wound and returned to Springwater to find a better way of life. Now, as deputy town marshal, he's facing off with modern-day cattle thieves who are plaguing local ranchers. Stronger than ever, J.T. seems ready for anything -- except, of course, Maggie. As Maggie's B&B begins to take root, a delightful new cast of Springwater locals passes through its doors. Maggie's parents, Kathleen and Reece, are finding that their forty-year marriage requires a little renegotiating now and then. Cindy, a teenage newlywed with a baby on the way, is learning about love and sacrifice for the first time. And town marshal Purvis Digg is turning Springwater upside down by dating a woman he met on the Internet. As always, Linda Lael Miller enchants readers with her portrayal of the complex tangle of life and love in a small town. With her trademark sensuality and her pair for wit, she once again brings Springwater to life -- this time, at the dawn of a new era.

1997 Judith Rivers This concise book gives the planning bride and groom an easy way to access the vineyards locations from Alameda county to Mendocino for vineyard event venue and honeymoon location answering their first question. Only a precious few of over 600 wineries in these areas do events and of those, few do weddings and receptions. The second question asked by brides is, "With 150 people coming to the vineyards, what can they do for a few days and where can they stay?" The honeymooner wants romantic places to stay and restaurants to enjoy. The book addresses these issues with the Day Trip portion for each county area plus a San Francisco day-trip and Pacific Coast day-trip. The planning portion helps couples understand the vineyards, the complexities of beginning early, the weather and seasons. Black and white and color photos give examples of the lovely areas. These books include a card which gives web addresses for pertinent up-dated information on the web in J.R. Publication's web sites, www.napavalleyca.com or a-vineyards.com.

2014-01-07 Pamela Lanier Searching for the perfect setting for an intimate wedding? There are 180 locations in this book from historic B&B's to special exotic, but accessible, boutique hotels to help the happy couple find the one place that will be special for their wedding, the one setting that will help to make it a unique and memorable occasion. The books available about wedding planning all focus on etiquette and style, usually in the form of planners, and pay little attention to setting. The magazines and websites all show how this occasion can be magical but they don't help you find the places. To many couples the setting is one of the cherished memories and that's why we think the particular expertise of Lanier Publishing can make that choice the best possible. The description of options at each location is thoughtful and thorough, all that is needed for a perfect wedding.

The answer guidance in the Kit highlights the models and ideas you should use to help answer questions, but also reminds you that it is applying knowledge to the specific context of the question scenario that earns marks, rather than simply reciting theories.
